THE OLD SCHOOL BOOK. On the old school back in its dusty nock

With a tearful eye l gize; Come down old triend, for an hour we'll spend In a talk nt the by-gone days.
I gaze once more, as in days of yore, On the task that vexed the brain : The lesson done, and the victory won,

And I seem to stand with the youthful band In the old house on the green; I hear the fun cie the school began, And I join in the gladsome scene; I take my place with a suber lace, O er the well carved desk I bend;

And I feel I'm a child again.

Then our cares were few, and our friends were

And haurly pore o'er the learned lore, Of thy wonderful page, old friend.

And our griefs were rare and light; The world was naught (so we fondly thought) But a reign of pure delight, But time has sped, and our path has led Through the dock and tearful scene; And passed away are the good and gay, Like the old house ou the green.

But we'll sing no more of the days of yore, For the tear drap dans the eye; Steep on, old book, in thy dusty nook, As in years that have glided by; No guilt we trace in thy honest face,

But a mine of gold within, the youth, as they sought for trath. In out mouses, the green.

The Culture of Flowers.

There are few objects in nature sn beautif a as flowers. Though short-lived, and the frailest of all created things, they amply compensate for this by their abundance, variety and beauty. Every woman, whatever her other employments may be, should endeavor to spure tim for their cultivation, though it be limited degree. There is no door yard so small that it will not afford some room for flowers, and there is no women so bosy that she can not take time monga for their or ture.

The lave of flowers is not so universal as it should be. Those who fancy they have but little tas e for flowers will find, by cultivation, that their taste will soon grow into a pass on

The dwelling places of the poorer classes are so often marked by an absence of flowers and other adornments, that one can scarcely help leeling that the occupants nat on possess no appreciation of the heautiful, but are also laboring under the delusion that they have no right to any enfant. have no right to any refined tastes, or to the means of gratifying them. What a sad mistake. If they can not have rich and easily manuface of beautiful flowers. Now it s true that much money is areded to build and adorn a stylish residence, which, when completed, may prove a pile of agimess, testifying to its owner's means and lack of taste; while a plain vine-wreathed cottage will be much

The interchange of plants and seeds in a neighborhood should be as much a mutter of course as any other neighborly courtesy.

There are numerous annuals which are easily grown, and which, when once put in th ground, will reproduce themselves year nite ear, with but very little care. Among the most useful of these are the Balsams, Candy-tuft, Astus, Four-o'clock, Portubecas and Petunias, all of warch are showy plants and remain in bloom for a long time. If you have not a supply of seeds, now is the time to send to some one of the various scedmen and ob tain them .- National Agriculturist.

DEALING WITH FACIS.

many well meaning men in the country belonging to both parties. Most, of the enmities of this world come from misconception. If people understood each other better there would be a great deal more good feeling amongst men. We think it is highly probable that President Grant has a heart, and that there is some avenue to the kindlier and better feelings of his nature. Amid all the selfishness of politicians, and all the base inotives which control their conduct, there is in alnrost every one of them a vein of patriotic and human feeling.

Recognizing, our Union under a commen government with the North as a necessity, is this justify a tirade against the dominaut it not a corollary that there is no use in maintaining a status of chronic bitterness towards them? Is it not unmanly to do so? Women and children perpetuate a quarrel in two Democratic judges, and a Democratic Govthis way; hut men have to deal with realities -and action is always more conservative than talk. On the other hand, what is the duty of the North? Surely they can find no gain or profit in making the South a hot-bed of faction and discontent. The first condition of success for the American Union is harmony yet we have maintained here the extraordinary spectacle, of an attempt to pacificate and givern about one third of the country by force. The very harshest measures have been resorted to and each succeeding session of Congress swells the list of penal and vindictive measures against the South. Is it not time to pause and inquire whether some o her policy would not be wiser and more efficacious to accomplish the objects of the government? How is it possible ever to have an orderly and tranquil society in such a State as South Carolina on the present system? Public sentiment is not consulted at all in the measures which have been upplied to this State. The whole, proceelure has been based on the theory of judices of the white population. A government has been set up there that no fair and candid man of any party, in any country in Christendom, can pretend to approve. The Constitution of the South Carolina Legisla ture is alone and of itself an ample explanation of any amount of disorder which may exist there. Why is not some attempt made to conciliate these people? Why is there not some endeavor to secure the cooperation of the wealth, intelligence, and ne ral worth of the State in the work of reorganizing a society sufficiently shocked by the mere act of emancipating in a mome t an immense body of slaves? Is there no other way than to turn the Government over to these slaves, and then to send soldiers ther to enable them to keep their white master quiet? We put out of view the party aspec of the matter. Can the North find no bette it is to rest in the good will and affections of the people, ought not the property holders of South Carolina to have some protection? Ought not the feelings which nature has finplanted in the hearts of every decent white rice to be to some extent respected? the awful doom that has been imposed on [ Concluded from Saturday's issue.] The Cincinnati Commercial of the 21st March last contains the namual report of James L Ruffin, in Cincinnati, for the year ending February 28, 1871. It shows 6,857 offense against persons and the public peace, and 93 offenses against property; making the total 7,794 offenses during the past year. Thi would seem fully to vindicate my statement a originally made. If one isolated case of kill ing be proof of Kn-Klux outrages in the re cently reconstructed State of Mississippi, what will the Senator say to the amount of crime committed in Cincinnati during the past year I do not cite this official record of crime in Ciucinnati ro detract from the high characte of Olno as a moral, cuterprising, rich, orderly Commonwealth; but merely as a just offset to the argument of her Senator that isolated cases of judividual crime are proof of Ku-Kluxisiu If this be true, Ohio will have to be looked

Mr. Sherning-Will toy friend from Kentucky allow me to ask lum a question?

Mr. Stevenson-Certainly. Mr. Sherman-Can the Senator make no statement or read any authority to show that in any case a person charged with crime in Ohio is not arrested as soou as possible, and tried and found guilty by a jury in the ordi nwry course? There is one ponitentiary near Cincinnati. We all know that the great body of crime in our communities is committed in the large cities. Cincinnati turnishes, believe, nearly one third of the inmates of that penitentiary. That is true because it is a large city, and we know that more crimes are committed there generally than in the rural places. But I think the Senstar from Kentucky will be unable to quote way authority to show that any offense committed in Ohio is not promptly tried and the criminal convicted in due course of

Mr. Stevenson-I think I can cite the Senator to several cases in Cincinnati of killing where the parties have been wrrested, tried, and acquitted. Mr. Sherman-No doubt of it. Mr. Stevenson-I think il' the Senator will remember he can recall some very lead. ing cases where manslaughter and other most atrocious assaults have occurred in Obio which the parties have been acquitted. And was not that precisely Yerger's case? Has he not been tried ! of the law? Why, then, cite this particular Indiana, where the regulators have hung men on two or three occasions and went unpunished? It does seem to me that Senators will have to look neaver home before they scatter broadeast such incendiary tirades against the South merely to rekindle the expiring embers of a sectional contest which the unity, prosperity and harmony of the country sternly demands & should be extinguished forever.

Mr. Morton-Will the Senntor allow me a

Mr. Stevenson-With great pleasure. Mr. Morton-1 desire to state to the Senato the understanding I have of the difference between the cases in Ohio and in Kentucky. In Ohio the ordinary primes are committed that are committed in all the States, but they are erimes which are not stamped by the peculiar errounistances of those of which we complain. In Kentucky they have the ordinary crimes, and I presume they are punished as well there as they are anywhere else; hat, in addition to those ordinary crimes in Kentucky, they have Let us put passion aside. There are a great these peculiar crimes and outrages of which complaint is made. They are in addition to the others. Kentucky has her full share, as Indiana and Ohio have, of the ordinary crimes; it in addition to them, what is charged is that in Kentucky and other States there is class of erimes over and beyond those, stamped by peculiar circumstances, which it is alleged not punished. That is the difference. Mr. Stevenson-1 understand the difference So far as the punishment of individual cases f ulleged crime like that of Yerger, cited by the Senator from Ohio, is concerned, it is ad mitted to be as well punished in Kentneky as in other localities. It that be so, why did the honorable Scuaror from Ohio cite an isolated individual case of personal Injury? I have not denied that a small band of unknown men have committed outrages in Kentucky, who have so far escaped' punishment. But doe party of the State as countenancing such excesses and violence, especially with the documentary evidence cited by the Senstor himself of the action of two Democratic newspapers rnor in the suppression of these disorder Does not the Senator know of unlawful com binations in ladiana, which have, on several occasious, taken life in utter disregard of law and yet escaped punishment? Does he not know of disorders in Massachusetts and other large States, where riors constantly occur in the contests of labor against capital, in which life and property both sometimes pay the for leit, and yet where the lawless escapa The existence of violence in one State is, and good will amongst all its parts. And admit, no justification for failing to suppresit in another. But I do insist that it is some what unjust and illiberal to Kentucky that he population should be denounced as criminal violators of the personal and property right of a political minority because a secret and inconsiderable band of bad men, who commiacts of lawless violence, have not been detected and brought to punishment. Mr. President, uniform wilherence to law and order has always characterized the Kentucky people. They have upheld the Unistitution and the laws. How unjust to intimate, as was done by the Senator from Nevada [Mr. Nye], that animosity among the masses to the en franchisement of the colored population was the true origin of Ku-Klux vintence in Ken-I utterly deny it. That a few lawles men have offered indiguities and violence to negroes may be true; but I assert, without the fear of contradiction, that the Kentucky peo ple, irrespective of party and irrespective of their status during the war, treat the negro with beuevolence, with justice, and with ignoring the opinions and lifetings and pre-kindness rarely exceeded anywhere. I know rior of the white man. They were opposed to his enfranchisement; and yet where wa this right of suffrage enjoyed with grenter freelom or security than by the colored freedman in Kentucky at the last general election, in November fast?

ls it w mark of the unfitness of the Kenucky Democracy to control their State gov-roment as tested by a Republican standard occause they believe that the educated, virthous, experienced, trained, white citizen is a much safer custodi in of free government than me of that wace for whom we entertain the greatest kindness, to whom we are always ready to give aid and protection, for whom we have nothing but friendly feelings, but whom wbelieve unqualified to discharge the duties of enlightened statesmanship? And yet, is not this moscent zent in behalf of negro equality of recent date with some of those who would tain make it now the Precrustean rule of all polit ical orthodoxy? How long has it been since the distinguished Senator from Indiana f Mr Morton | has become a convert to this infe of to have portions of my messages to the Legis method of pacifying the South than this? I lature of my own State read to prove my or it is to be the theory of the Government that thodoxy in upholding law and order. I do not ntend to be outdone in courtesy by him, and I therefore wish to return the compliment and show by the reading of one of his messages to his Legislature in what close accord, as Gov ernor of Indiana, he stood with the people of Kentucky in their opposition to negro suffrage but a few years since. He pred cied the very dangers which we now dread. I ask the Clerk to read from the message of the Gavernor of Indiana, now the distinguis senator of that State, the passages I have

The Chief Clerk read as follows "The subject of soffinge is, by the National Constitution, expressly referred to the deteranything in ancient or modern annals like minution of the several States, and it cannot be taken from them without a violation of the letter and spirit of that instrument,

But without stopping to discuss theories of destions of constitutional law, and leaving them out of view, it would, in my opinion, b unwise to make the work of reconstruction de pend upon a condition of such donotful utility s negro suffrage.

It is a fact so manifest that it should not b called in question by any, that in people who are just emerging from the burbarism of slavery are not qualified to become a part of our polit ical system and take part, not only in the gov crament of themselves and their neignbors out of the whole United States. So far from believing that negro suffrage is a remedy for all of our national ills, I doubt whether it is a remedy for any, and rather believe that its en orcement by Congress would be more likely to ubject the negro to a merciless persecution than to confer upon him any substantial bene lit. By some it is thought that sulfrage i alrendy cheap enough in this constry; and the immediate transfer of more than half nillion men from the bonds of slavery, with all the ignorance and degradation upon them which the slavery of generations upon Southorn fields has produced, would be a declaration to the world that the exercise of American uffrage involves no intellectual or moral qualifications, and that there is no difference between an American freeman and an American sluve which may not be removed by a mere act

Mr. Stevenson-The same sentiments wer repeated at much greater length, and even with greater power, in a speech made by the honorable Senator at Richmond, Indiana, on the 29th of September, 1865. He thought then as many of the Kentucky people perhaps (bink now. He is a more apt scholar than we are m repudiating long cherished political opinions He has made greater progress in unlearning what he then announced was a great public danger, the proposed elevation of negroes to high and responsible positions. The bonorable Senator ought to be w little charitable, at least with the Kentucky people, for it they do not prefer n colored mail agent to an efficient educated white one, they are only adhering to loctrines promulgated by the Senator himsel as one of the essential requisites for the preservation of our free justitutions. Besides, the honorable Senator, both in his message and peech, was, in his annunciations, only following in the tootsteps of Georgo Canuing, who, on the 16th of March, 1823, in the British Pariament, went fully as far in the same direction. perhaps further. That great English statesman

But that I may do the honorable Semator no injustice I will let him speak for himself. I ask the Clerk to read so much of the paper I send to the desk as is marked in brackets. The Chief Cierk read the following extract from a speech delivered by Mr. Mortou at Richmond, Indiana, September 29, 1865 :

"Negroes Unfit to Vote .- I believe that in the case of four million shaves, just freed from bordage, there should be a period of probation and preparation before they are brought to tue exercise of political power.' * * * * * * What is their condition! Perhaps not one in fice hundred-I might say one in a thousaud-can read, and perhaps not one in five nundred is worth five dollars in property of "Can you conceive that a body of men, white or black, who have been in this condition, and their aucestors before them, are qualified to be immediately litted from their present state into the full exercise of political power, not only to govern themselves and their neighbors, but to take part in the Government of the United States! Can they be regarded as intelligent and judependent voters! The mere state of tacts turnishes the answer to the question. "To say that such men-and it is no fault of theirs, it is simply a misfortune, and a crime of this nation-to say that such men, just emerged from shevery, are quarthed for the exercise of portfical power is to make the strongest pro-snavery argument I ever heard. It is to pay the highest compliintent to the institution of slavery.

The Right to Vote Involves the Right to hold Omce. - I've right to vote carries with it the right to hold office. You connot say that the neoro has a natural right to vote, but that he must vote only for white men for other. The right to vote carites with it the right to voted for. When that right is conteried, von can make no discrimination, no distinc tion against the right to hold office; and the right to vote in a State carries with it the Congress and for all Federal officers. The right of suthrige being conterned in South Carolina, for State purposes, under our Constitution, as I have becore pointed out carries with it the right to vote for President and Vice President and memoers of Congress.

Here we deny to them almost every right except that of more personal liberty; and it is so in Illinois and many other nortbern States; and when you present to them the prospect of holding the highest offices in the gift of the people of the southern States, have colored Governors and colored members they do send colored Senators and Representatives to Congress, I have no doubt you will sit beside them, and will not think themselves degraded by doing so. I have nothing to say to this. I am simply discussing the political I State government, a negro for Governtion will couse; there will be no more white years past, emigration to any such State. You caunor find the most ardenranti-slavery man in Wayne county who will go and locate in a State that has a colored State government. You will absolutely shut off, at once and electually, all emigration from the northern States, and from Europe, too, whenever that event shall happen. Thus they will termin permanently colored States in the South. The white men who are now there would remove from them; they won d not remain under such dominion. "Effect of their Entranchmement; a Negro Balance of Power .- Very well, say some; that is all very well if we can get the negroes to go would be a balauce of power in this country. l ask, is it desirable to have a colored State government? I say it is not. It is not, for with such courage, way task of committees many reasons. One reason is that such States would perpetually constitute a balance of They would be held bound by that powerstringent tie that ever held men together, the which the larg r portion of the Southern per tie of color and race, the tie of a downtrodden and despised race. As three hundred thousand jumority, on the ground that such outrages slaveholders, by a common tie, were able to do exist, and afterward institute an inquir million people, bound together by a much r quired no proof for his condemnation of stronger tie, despised by the whole world as innocence. would result in a war of races. The Solution of the Difficulty .- Now the question turns up, how can this be avoided? If I had the power I would arrange it in this way: I would give these men a period of brobation and preparation; I would give them time to acquire a little property and get a little education; time to learn something about the simplest forms of business, and pre pare themselves for the exercise of political power. At the end of ten, fitteen, or twenty ears, let them come into the enjoyment of their political rights. By that time these States v : been so completely filled up by emigration f om the North and from Europe that the negroes will be in a permanent minority Because the negroes have no emigra tion-nothing but the natural increase-while we have emigration from all the world, and natural increase besides. Thus, by postponing the thing only to such times as the negroes are qualified to enjoy political rights the dangers I have been considering would have fully passed away. Their influence would no longer be dangerous in the manner I have indicated, and a conflict of races would not be more like ly to happen than it now is in Massochusetts In Massachusetts the negroes have exercised political rights for twenty-five years, and yet there has been no disturbance there, no conflict of ruces.

vast preponderance of the Kentucky people man of their own color to any office to bring up that prejudice of race. I believe what I have stated will be the way in which the question will work itself out. But, under the policy of Mr. Sumner, we are to exclude twenty out of every twenty-one white men in the inevitable result of that policy would be to stablish colored State governments, and a colored bulance of power in this Republic, a thing which I think most desirable to avoid.

Mr. Steveuson-Mr. President, the senti ments therein expressed have the sanction of the most enlarged and enlightened statesmanship both in England and America. I was therefore surprised that the question was put o me whether all this excitement was not

Mr. Morton-Will the Senator allow me?

Mr. Sievenson-With great pleasore. Mr. Morton-The S nator, perhaps, ought to state that in the previous part of the speech from which he has read (and that part which he has read is only a portion) there was a discussion of a propositson which was then made to this effect: that the white men of the South who had been engaged in the rebellion should all be distranchised, excluded from the tight of suffrage, and that the franchise should be couferred upon the colored men, which, as I stated there, would have the effect to make from twenty-five to forty colored votes in each of population. That proposition was to t idopted, and the white men were not disfranchised in any State on account of being in the ehellion, I believe.

Mr. Stevenson-I of course am happy to hear the explanation of the honorable Senator: hut it does not lessen or detract a whit from the argument of the Senator against the danger and disqualification of the colored race to vote or hold office. That abstract question was not affected, and could not be, by ine disfranchisement of the white men. The question of negro States might tu some degree be dependent on the total disfranchisement of the whites; but the question of the fitness or unfitness of the negro to vote or hold office was palpatily independent of the perding question of total white districted sement. planation of the Senator does not, therefore, help him. The Senator in that speech asked "Can you concerve that a body of mer white or black, who have been in this condtion, slacery, and their ancestors before them, are quantied to be momedistely lifted up from their present state into the full exercise of poutical power, not only to govern themselves you will have at least twenty negro to es to be regarded as intelfagent and independent voters:

I know nothing of the condition of the af-fairs of the South. The distinguished Senator com Delaware [Mr. Bayard] has thoroughly exposed the sophistry and error of the majorit report ou Southern outriges. He will be fol lowed by the Senator From Missouri [Mr Blur] in a day or two. The exposure of the talsity of Southern outrages by the Democratic party may be well confided to these gentlemen. But I cannot forbenr calling the attention to indicial trial which recently occurred in Golds porough, Nerth Carolina. I am exceedingly auxious that the Seismor from Massachuset [Mr. Wilson] should hear this statement. He persuades bimself that the freedmen in the South are the chef victims of outrages by white men. The thought that the freedmen themselves commit outrages upon freedmen as well as upon white men ballles his comprehension. I have trespassed, Mr. President, too long upon the patience of the Semite. I have felt that Kentucky had been singled out and treated with intentional injustice in the suppression of But for causes to me unknown, writs of post the mail. I felt, too, that the honorable Servssion were not executed, and an attempt atar from Ohio and the honorable Senatur from Indiana had been imposed on in of Etizabeth City vounty was met with armed sentations that the outrages committed in Sistance by these colored people—

Here is an armed resistance in a sovereign had been sauctioned by either Democrats or Could derates. I am prond to say that the Republican party and the Democratic party are alike the friends of law and order, and equally desire the suppression of violence throughout the State.

Bid nien exist in both parties, and where had men appear excesses and disorders will occur. The killing of a man named Lighter has been cited by Senators. That occurred since my resignation. I have heard that Lighter was a Ku-K ux, and was hung by his associates in violence for an alleged revebition of some of their misdoings. Such was the rumor. If this be true, it is an illustration that they who live by violence often die by it, But Judge Bruce, in his charge to the grand jury, cited by the Senator from Indiana, reflects truly the opinion of all good men, irrespective of party, thronghout the State. It may be true that this mere handful of oad men ave so far escaped detection and punishmen' But it cannot aiways be so. Cease your oppressive and vindicitye monsurer against Ke lucky. Leave the people to exercise local selfgovernment without any centralizing influence of Federal power, without military interference, and without threats, and, my word for it, tho Legislature will do their duty by prompt proper, and stringent legislation, and every pecies of violence will disappear.

But I protest, in the name of constitutional liberty, agorust the false clamors of violence charged upon the southern people as the basis of congressional cunctments unwithorized the letter or spirit of the Constitution, and iu violent untagonism to our free institutions.

The idea that the soft side of a plank makes the best couch when one gets used to it was long ago exploded. People who know 'what is what," who read the newspapers, and mean to be somehody, don't believe a word of it. Those who have settled down to a Diogenes-inthe tired man or woman will sleep soundly on Smith. a hard bed, and habit may make the hardness dear to them. It is also true that Napoleon's soldiers slept while on their march bouseward from Russia, and some of them may have he come attached to locomotion and sleep united. Notwithstanding ali this, those who have once felt the almost human kindness and warmth of a bnir mnttress beneath them cannot go buck to struw and busks without a paug.

Look at the matter physiologically. The spinal column is composed of twenty-four pieces of bone fastened by a cartilage, with a little eushion of highly elastic cartilage nicely fitted in between each to prevent friction and to permit perfect freedom of movement. The spine is not straight, but curves in, as every-body knows, at the small of the back, and curves out again. In a perfect bed every part of this vertibral column will be supported; but in a hard, unyielding surface this is not possi-hle. One portion of the body rests firmly on the hed beneath it, while another in n line with it receives no support. Sleep on such u bed will not restore the wearied frame nearly so well as repose on an election of the body rests firmly on Ju., A. G. Baawner, Jas. G. Dudley, B. F. Meek, A. J. James, W. P. D. Bush, L. Tobin M. H. P. Williams.

Board School Trustees, C. O. D. Bosh, L. Tobin M. H. P. Williams. well as repose on an elastic couch where every part of the body is equally supported.

We do not recommend softness but elasticity.

Feathers, except in very cold weather, are un-wholesome, because they retain an excess of warmth about the hody, and also because they where the insensible perspiration thrown off by the pores, and permit the hody to reabsorb the excrementations matter. A bed of soft, fresh straw, evenly distributed and covered with a thin cotton or woolen mattress, may be a good resting place, and furnish sweet sleep. But how eau man or woman rise refreshed from a couch of straw or a shuck mattress which has been in nightly use without renewal for a series of years? Yet there are portions of this very land of plenty where travelers are put to sleep upon just such beds as this.

Every mun in grazing districts may own a dozen or two coarse-wooled sheep. These and their increase will, in a short time, give him wool mattresses, than which none are more pleasant, more wholesome, or durable. The tag locks washed and carded should be hoarded by every farmer's wife for this purpose. In cities and, villages, and in the more populou-parts of our country, those who can afford good alceping-places generally have them. The degree of refinement and cultivation, as well as wealth one has attained, may be easily read by one glance at their sleeping apartment Cleanliness and comfort are perfectly consisten with honest poverty, for straw and water are with honest poverty, for straw and water are cheap everywhere in the conatry, and within the reuch of all.

Third Discrete. William Morris—On First

As a general rule, the hetter care a man takes of his body in feeding it with skill, clothing it with discretion, and giving it due and refreshing sieep, the more work he can do, and the higher quality of his work. A vigorous, energetic, and hardy body may patiently en-dure for n series of years gross violations of its fundamental laws, but the day will come when it will demand full retribution for every dis-honored regulation. The rules of physical well-being are like those laws that Moses received on the granite of Mount Sinai. Tolacco broken sleep, bad fare, cold. dampness, miasms, will tell on every frame at last; and when the state of the state o Nomesis comes, he requires eye for eye, toota for tooth, stripe for stripe, burning for burning New York Tribune.

Raising Water-Melons.

As I am very successful in raising watermelons, I thought I would send my pian: The spot of ground that you expect to plant, pre-pare well, early in the spring, by plowing deep; the first of April lay off your hills eight feet upart each way, dig out holes two feet deep, two feet square; in each hole put hulf peck rotten cotton seed, half peck hog-pen manner. and a tablespoonful of salt; mix well with a hoe, adding soil until you get the hole full up to three inches from the surface, then draw of light, loose dirt until you get it level; do not elevate it, for by so doing you cause them to die out when summer comes; draw your hoe around to form a furrow; plant half a dozen seed in a hill-soon as up, thin out to four second hoeing thin to two. Continue to hoe them every foor or five days, and just before the vines start to run, side with a plow, first one way, then the other, I mean cross-plowing. In about ten days give them another plowing and hoeing. Continue to keep the ground loose just as you can duso without injuring the vines for in no case should they be moved. Drive little sticks across the vines, thus, X, to keep the wind from blowing them about. By the above plan, I have gathered over 1,000 melons from half an acre of ground, some weighing over 40 pounds .- Cor. So. Culticator.

INGROWING NAILS .- One of the deserved punishments which people suffer for the folly of squeezing their feet into norrow shoes and boots, is an ingrowing nail. Mr. South recommends the following treatment for its cure. Firstiget rid of the narrow shoe, so that the toe may be unconfined, and the nail allowed to recover its proper breadth, which, however, it does not do very quickly. Then proceed to relieve the sore skin by the side of the nail, of its pressure. It is of no use, however, merely to cut away the pressing nail, even freely, and theu to press a piece of lint under its cdgc. which is as painful as it is useless; for the nail, if it is not otherwise managed, will drop in the course of a few days upon the old spot, and again render it "angry." The proper treatment is, thinning the whole length of the middle of the nail, from its root to its end, as much as possible; and this is best dooe by scraping it perseveringly with the sharp edge of a piece of gluss, ugain und again, till the middle of the nail is as thin as writing-paper, and will readily bend under the pressure of the finger nail. This is, at first a rather painfu joh; hut scruping must be done with a light hand. As soon as the middle of the nail bas been thus thinned, it yields to the upward pressure of the skin on its side edges, readily bends, and offers no further resistance. And the sore place being no longer irritated by prossure, the "proud" flesh soon drops down and the sore heals. If narrow shoes or hoots be again used, the foolish wearer may expect a repetition of his plague.

REMEDY FOR CUTWORM .- The Western Rulal gives the following as an effective preventive of the ravages of the cutworm:

The entworm generally feeds on the roots of grass and weeds; and when the supply of its favorite food is interfered with, it attacks the roots or rather tender shoots of any crop that occupies its feeding ground. This grub is seldom found in laud which has been kept to cure.
